"GREAT GRAY OWL" COMING MARCH 9

Warren Larson will show his faseinating film The Great Gray Owl at the regular meeting of the Golden Gate Audubon Society on Thursday, March 9, 7:30 p.m. in the Rotary Natural Seienee Center at Bellevue and Perkins, Lakeside Park, Oakland. Mr. Larson filmed the nesting aetivities of the great gray owl in Yosemite National Park. Vi and George Homem will show a selection of their bird and mammal photos from Arizona to Alberta. Refreshments will be served at the end of the program to give new and old members time to meet each other.

A no-host dinner will begin at 6:30 at Lovely's Buffet, 336 Grand Avenue at Perkins — a short walk from the Natural Seienee Center. Visitors are welcome. — MRS PHYLLIS ZWEIGART, Program Chairman.

MARCH FIELD TRIPS

Wednesday, March 15, a wildflower walk around the quarry in East Oakland. If the season is guessed eorreetly we shall see, in 20 families, 40 fine species of flowers. For study beforehand, I suggest pp 5-6 and 15-20 in Helen K. Sharsmith's Spring Wildflowers of the San Francisco Bay Region. This is a carefully simplified guide with colored plates and excellent line drawings and ean be handily carried along. It ean be bought at the National Audubon Center, 2426 Baneroft Way, Berkeley. We shall meet at 9 a.m. on Elinora St., the fourth turn off Aliso St. beyond 35th Ave. (Aliso St. parallels the Warren Freeway on the Bay side.) Leave the freeway on the 35th Ave. Exit. Persons eoming by bus will be met at MacArthur Blvd. and 35th Ave. at 8:45. Bring luneh and interested friends. Leader, Marshall Jeneks, 534-9353.

Saturday, March 18, Tilden Park, Berkeley. Meet at Spruee Street Reservoir at Spruee and Grizzly Peak Blvd., at 9 a.m. From San Francisco take 8:11 a.m. F bus and transfer to No. 67 at University Ave at 8:57 a.m. Rufous hummingbirds, orange-erowned and Wilson's warblers may be seen and heard. A hike to the nearby hills will be made to see spring wildflowers. Leader, L. R. Leinbaeh, 526-7649.

Saturday, April 1, Audubon Canyon Raneh and Point Reyes Bird Observatory in Marin County. Meet at the raneh, which is 3 miles north of Stinson Beach on State Highway 1 at 8:45 a.m. The great blue herons will be nesting at this time. Early migrating land and water birds may also be seen. In the afternoon we will visit the Bird Observatory which is north of the town of Bolinas. Leaders, A. Laurence Curl, 526-7004, and Mrs. Alice Radcliffe, 567-5856.

Sunday, April 30, Boat trip to the Farallon Islands. Details will be in the April Gull.

Bring lunch, binoculars, and interested friends on all field trips.

Save the weekend of June 2-4 for the annual Yosemite field trip. Please copy the reservation form on page 22.

— MRS. VALERIA G. DaCOSTA, Field Trips Chairman

Please mark your calendar for Sunday, May 7 for the Golden Gate Audubon Picnic at Canyon Ranch, and Thursday, June 8 for Golden Gate's Golden Anniversary Banquet.

"VILLAGE BENEATH THE SEA" — MARCH 16

Harry Pederson has produced an extraordinary film, Village Beneath the Sea, designed to give man a broader knowledge of the animals that live in the sea, in the hope that he may not go on thoughtlessly killing them as he has the land animals. The film will begin at 8:15 p.m. on Thursday, March 16, in the Berkeley Little Theatre, Allston Way at Grove Street. It is the fifth in the 1966-67 Audubon Wildlife Film series; single admission at the door will be $1.50 for adults and $1.00 for students under 18.

Among the inhabitants of the coral-reef village are neon gobies who operate a scale-cleaning service for residents needing parasites removed from their scales. The film also shows the flying gurnard who uses his fins like the wings of a plane, and turns stones with a pair of hands he has developed for that purpose.

With Village Beneath the Sea, Harry Pederson hopes to persuade scuba divers and souvenir hunters to refrain from despoiling the coral reefs and their inhabitants so that this last frontier will remain for all to enjoy.

Harry Pederson supplied footage for the film version of Rachel Carson's The Sea Around Us, and documentary material for Walt Disney Productions. He has also supplied film for Hunters of the Deep, The Animal World, Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea, and Mysteries of the Deep. His photographs have appeared in The World We Live In and The Sea (Time, Inc. books). He lives in McAllen, Texas, where he continues to devote his time to photography and lecturing.

COVEL'S CONSERVATION CORNER

Santa Cruz bird watchers are up in arms — and we can understand and sympathize. Lovely Schwan Lagoon is threatened will fill and pavement for a parking lot to serve Twin Lakes Beach, though another area is available for this purpose a short distance away. Perhaps some Golden Gate members have birded there, or should make a trip there very soon to make their own conclusions. Will our "recreationists" and master planners never learn the higher values of a little water without boats, water-skiers or bathers?

The California Roadside Council, according to its Winter Issue of "The Bulletin," is unhappy with the Federal Highway Beautification Acts of 1965. It seems that Title

One includes a "just compensation" clause to assist billboard advertisers, in addition to the "amortization" periods existing advertisers enjoy before billboards must be removed. They fear this compensation feature may be forced upon many state and local governments who are trying to cope with billboards. The Council does not advocate repeal of the 1965 Act, but will work toward corrective amendments. The Council commends our State Division of Highways for the progress in Roadside Rests, junkyard screening, and for a plan to include wildflower-seeding on highway cuts and fills in one district — and let's extend that!

Because so many Audubon people are distressed at the action of the last Congress, opening national wildlife refuges to year-round hunting of resident game species, we recently discussed this problem as applied to our Sacramento Valley refuges with a Dept. of Fish and Game official (as this Department assists the Fish & Wildlife Service in hunter-control.) We were assured that waterfowl refuges or the closed sections of refuges were not opened to pheasant hunting where waterfowl protection would suffer. Certain areas might be opened for pheasant on non-shooting days for ducks.

The Bolinas Lagoon Master Plan has encountered strong opposition from many sources, in addition to Audubon Canyon Ranch users and others who have long enjoyed the natural values of this area. Limited development may be justified — or inevitable — but not on the grandiose scale proposed. — PAUL F. COVEL, Conservation Chairman

PERALTA COLLEGES COULD DEVELOP MARINE ECOLOGY CENTER

Conservationists will be encouraged to hear of the concern of The Peralta Colleges for the preservation of the natural resources of San Francisco Bay.

The Peralta Colleges' outline of December 28 for a junior college in Berkeley describes the unique program opportunities at the waterfront site, stressing the desire of the Peralta District to "develop a center at the Berkeley campus in marine biology and ecology, and oceanography research."

Peralta District officials hope that "a Berkeley campus located in the waterfront area would serve as not only a tremendous and important resource center for this area of study, but such an area might lead to the development of a preprofessional and/or technical program for occupational training. This is especially important today when there is widespread interest in the preservation of wildlife and in the basic nature of the San Francisco Bay region. Many agencies and organizations are vitally interested and concerned, and such a program would undoubtedly supplement their energies in this direction."

GOLDEN GATE PARK TRIP, JANUARY 24

Ten Audubon members braved the early morning storm and were rewarded with sunshine by 10:30. At Middle Lake, Florence Richardson of Sequoia Audubon spotted a sora emerging from the tules; it finally came into full view for five minutes. Nearby, Audubon's & Myrtle warblers were observed in good light. In the tall pines we heard the soft giggling notes of pygmy nuthatches. At North Lake we found a hybrid flicker with red nape and red mustaches, gray crown, brown face, red-shafted wings and orange tail linings. A male yellowthroat brightened the North Lake tules. In the afternoon a slate-colored junco was foraging with the Oregon juncos near the Fuchsia Garden. Wood ducks were scattered — a few on Spreckels Lake, North Lake, and Middle Lake. — VAL DaCOSTA and VI HOMEM, Leaders.

Ed. Note: We were dismayed to see a large quantity of marsh plants being removed from Middle Lake by the Park Department. We are concerned about the future of these marshy ponds where we used to find cinnamon teal, gallinules, marsh wrens, and other species requiring cover. We hope that Golden Gate Park will some day provide a nature trail leaflet or a staff naturalist for the Chain of Lakes to acquaint city children with marsh ecology. Oakland, Berkeley, and the East Bay Regional Parks have outstanding programs in outdoor nature education for children and adults.

OBSERVATIONS

Dec. 23 — A Nashville warbler was observed in El Cerrito by A. Laurence Curl.

Dec. 28-29 — A Western tanager was also observed in the Curls' El Cerrito garden.

Jan. 4 — Sacramento Audubon Observer reported a snowy owl (Nyctea scandiaca) found by Fish & Game Wardens, Mike Sadleir and Bill Donovan, on the west side of Yolo Bypass 12 miles south of Highway 80. "It was very ill and died 5 hours later in the F & G Field Station."

Jan. 7 — Gerard Brady, owner of the Inverness Motel, reported a swamp sparrow (Melospiza georgiana) in his marsh. On the same day Mr. Brady and Paul Opler also saw the common teal and European widgeon on Tomales Bay.

Jan. 7 — A yellow-shafted flicker was found by Val DaCosta at Rodeo Lagoon.

Jan. 8 — Marin Audubon's Redwood Log reported a poor-will observed in Tennessee Valley in a hibernating state by Helen Pratt.

Jan. 11 — Hooded mergansers (3 males and 4 females) were found by Bud Fry and Alice Higgins in the concrete-enclosed lagoon of a new housing development in Corte Madera, Marin County.

Jan. 19 — Myra Browne and Gertrude Bialos found a flock of common mergansers on Lake Chabot, San Leandro.

Feb. 4 — Blue-winged teal (3 males) were in the Palo Alto salt marsh during the Golden Gate field trip.

NEWS BRIEFS

Santa Cruz Bird Club's Albatross for January-February reports that two marked California gulls were seen at Pacific Grove in November. Adult and immature California gulls have been equipped with bright disk shoulder marks. Look for them along the shore and report to Dr. Kenneth L. Diem, Dept. of Zoology and Physiology, University of Wyoming, Laramie, Wyo. 82070.

Sacramento Audubon Society's Observer for January published a timely protest against the collecting of bird specimens in a National Park during the Christmas Count. (Why should conservation organizations condone such collecting activities just to reach a high tally?)

TO CYGNET SUBSCRIBERS

Many of you fond grandmothers, aunts, and friends have subscribed to The Cygnet for your youngsters. Many of these subscriptions have now run out and only they have been notified. Please renew your gift subscriptions now — one dollar for 6 copies. Henceforth, subscriptions run from January through December. — MRS. JANET NICKELSBURG, Education Chairman.

AUDUBON CANYON RANCH, BOLINAS LAGOON

Under joint sponsorship of Golden Gate and Marin Audubon Societies to protect a major rookery of Common Egrets and Great Blue Herons.

Audubon Canyon Ranch has been most fortunate in the generous support it has received over the last five years — support that has enabled us to pay off completely the cost of the 569 acres the ranch now owns without encumbrance.

A great many people assume that the project now needs no more help, but it is vital that it continue to receive financial support if we are to acquire the tidelands near the ranch that are so important to us; if we are to hire a full-time naturalist; and if we are to have the small office and education building we need. We hope also eventu-

Dear Friend:

I would like to extend to you a cordial invitation to attend the 10th Biennial Wilderness Conference to be held at the San Francisco Hilton Hotel April 7, 8, 9, 1967. This conference, open to the public, is sponsored by the Sierra Club and co-sponsored by the Sierra Club Foundation.

The conference theme is "Wilderness and the Quality of American Life." The program of distinguished speakers will be supplemented by panel discussions and audience questions. Exhibits by major conservation organizations, resource agencies, and outfitters will be displayed. Photographs of wilderness by some of the nation's finest landscape photographers will also be displayed. In addition, films on wilderness themes will be shown.

Proceedings of this conference will be published, continuing the wilderness conference series of five volumes. These volumes are recognized as a significant addition to conservation literature.

As this conference is the major national gathering to discuss the meaning which wilderness holds for each of us, I sincerely hope you can attend.

JAMES P. GILLIGAN
Chairman

Registration by mail encouraged before April 1. Registration after April 1 at conference only, East Lounge, 8 a.m. April 7 and 8.

A telephone message center in the San Francisco Hilton will accept incoming messages for those attending the conference on April 7 and 8 between 8:30 a.m. and 5 p.m. The Wilderness Conference number will be: 415-776-1390.

ally, mainly through bequests to the San Francisco Foundation, to build up the Audubon Canyon Ranch Endowment Fund so that we will not have to depend upon annual fund drives to maintain this wonderful property and to carry on an active nature and conservation education program. I hope that the members of the parent Audubon societies will continue to give the ranch their help and will take the necessary steps to remember the ranch in their wills. — L. M. CRIFFIN, M.D., Chairman.

We have received $463.95, our share of the surplus from the pre-convention trips arranged by our Valeria DaCosta, and Phil Kearney of Marin Audubon Society. It is being given to Audubon Canyon Ranch for the maintenance and development fund.

Audubon Canyon Ranch will be open to visitors from March 1 to July 4, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Saturdays, Sundays, and holidays.

Organized groups are welcome Wednesdays through Fridays by appointment.

Appointments, or reservations, are necessary to avoid overcrowding the ranch and also because the picnic area is limited. For appointments write Mrs. Stanley Ellis, 2483 Mar East, Tiburon, giving alternate dates whenever possible.

Volunteers from the Colden Cate Audubon Society will serve as hosts at the ranch in March and May. Couples are especially needed, although two women or two men may also serve. Won't you volunteer for this pleasant assignment? Phone or write Mrs. Mary Leinbach, 201 Purdue Ave., Kensington, (526-7649). Over-all coordinator for ranch activities this season is John Nelson, 978 Creenhill Road, Mill Valley, (phone 388-7589).
